TROMBONE GRIP—The ideal solution for comfortably holding any trombone!

The innovative TROMBONE GRIP from Neotech addresses the age-old problem of comfortably supporting the weight of a trombone while maintaining the proper playing position. It's designed to be adjusted to fit both the instrument and the musician's hand, providing unparalleled comfort, balance and support while playing.

In order to achieve a custom fit for any style/size of trombone, Neotech's TROMBONE GRIP comes with three types of wraps (bushings) along with several neoprene shims to create the perfect platform for the hand grip to snap on. Once the correct bushing type is selected and firmly attached, the hand grip is quickly affixed. It can be adjusted forward and back as well as at a slight angle to create the perfect playing position. This means that the TROMBONE GRIP can be placed in a position for optimal support and balance of the instrument. The grip incorporates a soft, durable neoprene strap which closes securely and comfortably across the back of the hand. It allows for a full range of movement and a comfortable, yet secure hold on the instrument. While the custom-fit bushing remains on the instrument, the grip portion is easily removed for storing and transporting the instrument.

Musicians of all ages and those with smaller hands can now hold a trombone without undue stress on the hand and fingers. This keeps musicians free from potential long-term injury and enables them to concentrate on their technique and music rather than on the strain of holding the instrument.
